20th ANNUAL OGS CONFERENCE OCTOBER 2019 - RECAP

Ellen Waldman, a certified aging life care professional was a 1st-time attendee to our OGS Annual Conference. She was so excited to attend and subsequently brought four more professional care givers, all from the Rogue Valley. Ellen writes for Ashland-area aging resources and has a website, www.SeniorOptionsAshland.com Ellen shares her November 5, 2019 column she wrote:

Conference Offers Tips On Spotting Elder Abuse

I attended the Oregon Geriatrics Society 20th Annual Conference on Oct. 4-6 in Sunriver Here's how they described it: "For health care professionals who care for older adults." It was my first time at this particular conference, and I went with a wonderful group of other professionals from the Rogue Valley. This conference primarily focused on medical providers, and we were all so pleased to be included at this event. If you know of a medical or older-adult-focused practitioner who might be interested in this conference, I give it my highest recommendations. Next year's conference is scheduled for Oct. 2-4, 2020, and Sunriver is where it's always held. You will love this!

In these next few columns, I will be presenting some of the information I received that is relevant to our local community of aging adults. Since there were about 20 presentations, I can't address them all. Let's start with one topic that was offered twice on different, but related aspects. One presented by two attorneys was called "Elder Abuse and the Department of Justice." One of these speakers was with the attorney general's office and the other with the criminal justice division. The second talk was "Adult Protective Services (APS) Case Studies in Long-Term Care Facilities and Community Settings," by two professionals in this field. It's obvious this is a very concerning topic for all aging individuals. In these presentations, it offered some important ways to note the signs of and the importance of inquiring about potential abuse. They discovered that many people, if asked directly, will admit to a serious problem, but will not reveal this unless this is actually addressed. Something to keep in mind if you're concerned about anyone's safety.

Here are some other specifics I learned about elder abuse at the conference. Did you know that doctors, among a list of other professionals, have a mandatory duty to verbally report this? They also used a term, polyvictimization, which means that if someone is being abused in one way, that person usually is being abused in other ways as well. For example, most cases of verbal abuse indicate that financial abuse is also occurring. And sad to say, but the majority of abusers (90%) are family members: spouses or partners, adult children or grandchildren; or other trusted individuals. In 2018 in Oregon, of all the forms of abuse (verbal, physical, neglect, etc.), financial exploitation had the largest percentage at 36%. Frequently these cases involve adult sons living with their aging mothers. I have seen this myself too many times here and know how serious and devastating this is. It's also perfect timing for this column, since from 9:30am-3:30pm, Nov. 14, there will be a free, annual elder abuse conference at the Medford Library. And since the focus is on financial aspects of abuse, it's really important. You will learn about the risk factors and how to protect yourself from this form of abuse. It's presented by Senior and Disability Services at Rogue Valley Council of Government (RVCOG). The keynote speaker is Billie McNeely, Adult Protective Department's elder financial exploitation specialist. There will also be a panel of local experts, and happily for all, lunch is provided. If you would like to register, please visit rvcog.eventbrite.com.

Everyone should also know how to report any type of suspected abuse anywhere in the state. Call the Department of Human Services (DHS) Hotline at 1-855-503-SAFE (7233). You can remain anonymous and help someone who might need your intervention. In fact, there is a statute which provides immunity to any person who reports abuse in good faith. The person they are concerned about can be living in their own home, or in any community-type facility, such as assisted living, dementia care or adult foster care homes. There is so much more to be said on this topic and the various forms of abuse that can take place in someone's life. Plan to attend this upcoming event, or go online to get more info and protect yourself and your loved ones. Online, you can go to the National Center on Elder Abuse: ncea.acl.gov. They have educational materials and publications to help you out. It's too sad that we need organizations like this one and the local upcoming event, but this information is key to being safer.

A collection of brochures, meeting agendas, and list of board members – dating back 20 years!

The 20th OGS Anniversary celebration in Sunriver was great!! From an educational lineup that was one of the best years; to welcoming five 1st-time attendees from Rogue Valley; to having OGS founders with us – Cliff Singer, Mark Traines, and Howard Graitzer; to awarding Katy Patton with a plaque for her service on the OGS Board; to having keynote speakers Cara Tannenbaum from Canada and Larry Sherman giving us a musical treat ; to Elizabeth Eckstrom leading us in Yoga (outdoors!); to showcasing OGS conference brochures from early years, board members going back 20 years, and some special written-out fond memories of early OGS & OMDA.

The really BIG thanks goes to all of our continued OGS members and volunteers!
And to our loyal Annual Conference attendees and the Planners and Speakers for these conferences!!
OGS looks forward to many-many more years of your Geriatrics medical specialty society!!

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

April 2 - 5, 2020

Hyatt Regency Chicago

AMDA – The Society For Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine Annual Conference is the only educational forum of its kind in the field of post-acute and long-term care (PALTC). Filled with opportunities to enhance your knowledge and competencies in providing quality PALTC. Learn about the latest clinical developments in geriatric medicine, best practices in the field medical direction, policy/regulatory updates, as well as practical tools to help implement new ideas in your practice setting. www.paltc.org

In 2010, the United States Congress designated March 20th as the National Day of Recognition for Long Term Care Physicians. This initiative started with an AMDA – The Society for Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine House of Delegates resolution from the Georgia Medical Directors Association honoring the memory and work of AMDA founder William Dodd, MD, CMD. Dr. Dodd was a community physician who recognized that residents of nursing homes were patients with complex medical problems and that physicians needed to be involved in establishing the standards of management and clinical care for the frail elderly and other residents in long term care facilities. AMDA encourages you to celebrate this day - whether you are a long-term care physician, you work with one, or you or a family member are under the care of one. www.paltc.org

CERTIFIED NURSES DAY – March 19th

Every March 19, employers, certification boards, education facilities, and healthcare providers celebrate and publicly acknowledge nurses who earn and maintain the highest credentials in their specialty. Certified Nurses Day™ honors nurses worldwide who contribute to better patient outcomes through national board certification in their specialty. A registered nurse (RN) license allows nurses to practice. Certification affirms advanced knowledge, skill, and practice to meet the challenges of modern nursing. Inspired by Dr. Margretta 'Gretta' Madden Styles, RN, EdD, FAAN, a pioneer in nursing certification, Certified Nurses Day is the perfect opportunity to invite all nurses to advance their career by choosing certification. www.nursecredentialing.org
